MISSOULA--

Loyal A. Mehrhoff III, a senior in botany at the University of Montana, was chosen as winner of the George C. Marshall ROTC Award as outstanding senior in the University's ROTC program.

The award was given for the first time this year by the George C. Marshall Research Foundation to recognize leadership within the Army's Reserve Officer Training program.

Mehrhoff will attend the ROTC Award Conference on national security issues in Lexington, Virginia, April 20-22. He also was named a Distinguished Military Student in the Army ROTC program and will graduate from the University in June with high honors.

Following graduation and commissioning, Mehrhoff will begin graduate studies at either Harvard University or the University of North Carolina.

The Marshall award was named after George C. Marshall, who was Army Chief of Staff, Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense and the 1953 winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.

Mehrhoff is from Carterville, Ill.
